i'm LOSing my MiND!

Jerry Adams makes a fashion statement according to the 60's.

SAT's, college, good grades, class rank, deadlines, Achievement tests, . . . it's no wonder that most high school students feel like they're on the verge of an ulcer. Your brain feels like it's going to drip out of your nose, leaving you to become a complete zombie. But wait, there are some fun things to look forward to such as senior year. (Oooooo) SENIOR PRIVILEGES, licenses, college interviews, parties (tea parties, that is), proms, and dances. It's a shame that most of us have to completely lose our minds before the whole super duper high school experience is over.

YEARBOOK CARWASH

The yearbook editors get back at Mr. Kaplan.

Nice blue underwear, Kelly!!

The happy, helpful yearbook staff.

Caitlin Horgan puts in her usual 100% effort.

This car wash was an incredible success due to the months of gruesome planning and the development of an efficient system of cleaning cars created by the science department. NOT!

We rolled out of bed five minutes before the car wash began and skipped a shower figuring we would get wet enough there. We showed up in our oldest clothes with a bucket in one hand and breakfast in the other. Still half asleep when the first car rolled in, Lissi, Alexis, Arwen and Sarah gave Mr. Kaplan a wet wake-up call. Dorie contemplates leaving when she realizes that the sponge will get her manicured hands soapy and Alexis covers her head with a bucket to spare the camera her unstyled morning hairdo. Caitlin puts all of her enthusiastic energy into spraying that car and Allison is just happy that she finally figured out that she needs a sponge to wash the car.

This cheery group did whatever it took to please our customers, even rewashing the cars that complained about us doing a poor job. We sprayed, scrubbed, rinsed and laughed our way through the morning, making money in the process.

Allison Chen finally realizes that she needs a sponge.

Caitlin Horgan, Emily Fortier, and Kate Galicki are pleased with Alexis' decision to hide her face.

Senior Breakfast

Pancake, syrup, sausage, jello, hash browns, and the world's largest toy filled cowboy. I don't think I've ever seen so many seniors up as early as I did on that momentous day. The place was Abdow's, the time: too early for any normal human being to be alive. And the reason? The Famous Tradition of Senior Breakfast. It signifies the end of our strenuous, mind-bending work-filled SAT laden year. Though we were not yet seniors, it was a time to act like the big shots we knew we really were. We were ready to enjoy. We were ready to stuff freshmen into lockers. We were ready to leave school a period early if we had a study. We symbolically prepared for this by getting ready to eat a heaping dish of hash browns and super Abdow's sausage links, and chat delightfully over our Abdow's family fare. And even if we were a little late to our first period class, at least we had a good excuse.

Did Katie forget Abdow's serves their own food?

Meg and Sue work on a date for the Senior Ball.

OUR DAY

When it gets to be about the end of May and the sun is shining in a perfectly clear blue sky, seniors can think of a lot of places they would like to be when they are not in school. One of the places they would much rather be is in Boston enjoying the great weather. It is quite simple to hop on the T at Riverside, ride into the Commons and enjoy a pizza picnic instead of the cafeteria's Rangerburgers.

On a gorgeous day in Boston a person can find a lot to do that beats sitting in math class. For example, a pickup wiffle ball game on an empty field is always fun but can leave you with a telltale sunburn. Boston's Downtown Crossing is an excellent place to shop both indoors and at small vendor carts which line the street. It also contains many restaurants, and of course a McDonald's filled with interesting characters. For another 85 cents you can jump on the T once more and quickly be transferred to Fanuiel Hall. This outdoor marketplace is crammed with eating places, jewelry stores, entertainment and, of course, people. So, if at the end of May you begin to grow restless and need a fun place to go, try Boston. On the weekend, of course!

All I Want Is You

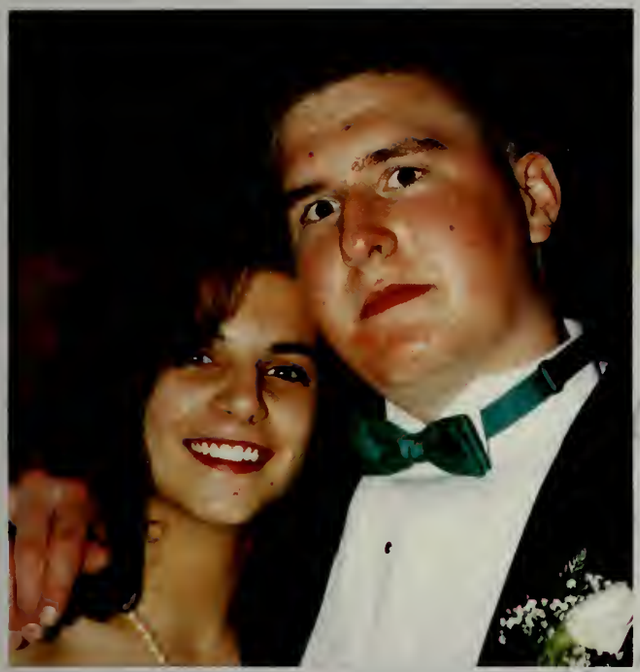
The Queen and her Court: Amy Powell, Laura Olsen, Tara Martin, Prom Queen Angela Thornton, Michelle Pollack, Shanon Murphy, and Avery LaBrecque

It all began way back in January when the first couple announced they were going to the prom together. All of a sudden, as if some alarm went off, guys frantically started asking girls (and vice versa) to be their dates to the much awaited Junior Prom. As if having a date four months ahead of time wasn't enough, couples quickly began planning who to ride in the limo with (for those whole twenty minutes there and back), and the girls began the mad dash to the stores to quickly proclaim a dress their own (so no one else would have the same dress on). Meanwhile the guys made their way to Mr. Tux to rent a tux, along with top hats, canes, and scarves.

After months of planning and gossiping, the long awaited day of April 10, 1992, had finally arrived. At 11:30 there was a mass exit from school, as we all went off to spend about five hours getting ready. The limos picked us up, and we all met at a few houses to allow our parents to photograph and videotape the ENTIRE ordeal. Then we were off to the Sheraton Tara in Framingham for what was to be the best night of our lives.

After hours of the Electric Slide and hundreds of slow dances, the Prom Court was chosen with Angela Thornton as the Prom Queen. As the night wound down to the last song, "All I Want Is You," couples clung to each other to hold onto those last memories of our Junior Prom.

However, this was just the beginning. We all went off to celebrate that night, and somehow managed to get up bright and early the next morning to set off for the traditional trip to the Cape.



After Prom

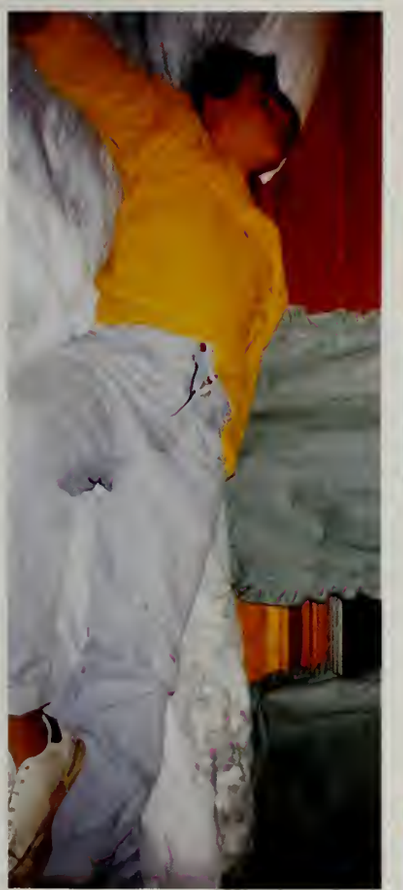
Above: Yum, Yum, Yum . . .
Below: It must've been the chicken.

The next morning we all headed to our respective destinations for a day of fun. The fact that it was raining and we'd had two hours of sleep the night before didn't seem to matter. We knew that no matter what, this would be a weekend we'd never forget!

The day was crazy from the beginning, when Andy Shirey became violently ill, and was left at a gas station to be picked up by his parents. Even though we had no directions, we somehow managed to find our infamous house. Unloaded from cars was pounds of turkey burgers, steaks, child's play, and other things too numerous to mention. We were in awe with the beautiful house equipped with hammock, ping pong table, and indoor pool. It was a day of rest and relaxation while hanging at the hammock. We were all awakened from a deep sleep when Bobo decided to experiment with the laws of gravity as he plummeted down the stairs. Andy Hieb had a freak accident when he encountered a monstrous Hoover vacuum cleaner. Kate soon distracted the attention from Andy's battle wound and provided entertainment until she finally broke down. Although most guests retired early, Justin, Alex, Steve and Anthony kept the party going all night. Colin awoke with a stiff neck after spending an uncomfortable night with a roll of paper towels as a pillow and Justin awoke in the same spot he dropped into the night before.

We somehow managed to drag our bodies out of bed and rolled into Friendly's in the same clothes that we slept in. We ordered a large amount of food to satisfy the appetites that we had acquired the previous night. Some of us had more delicate stomachs and ordered only water. A few last big dogs returned to the house to clean while the rest of us piled into cars to make the journey home. With the exception of the unfortunate few who were drafted to drive, the majority of us fell promptly asleep. We awoke in Westboro sporting the same outfits we had left in and newly acquired headaches. Overall the weekend was a huge success, from the memories we can piece together.

Ben's not sure when Indiana Jones showed up.
Boy Damon finds Justin fun in bed.



Alex unbuckles and winds down for the evening.
Who spiked the Ben & Jerry's?
Andy seems a bit bewildered.
Tara appears to be having a bad day.
Jayda's so perky in the morning!

After Prom Continued

Do we really want to know what Justin's thinking?

Dana retires to sick bay.

Who brought the cool kid?

Jake and Ronnie took some time out to spend quality time together.

Wipe that silly grin off your face, Brian!

Caitlin is simply glowing in the early morning's light.

Brian and Ronnie practice male bonding.
Jake looks forward to next time!
Steve happily remembers what he did last night.

Who greased the bedspread?
Anthony shows off an evil smile as he attempts to choke Dorie to death.

SENIORS

The class of '93 lived to meet their senior year. Some of us had our doubts along the way, but we made it. Now we are the kids taking over the halls and balconies. We're the ones who are supposed to be looked up to, whoever thought . . .

. . . that it would be our turn to have study in the cafeteria?
. . . that first and last study would be so valuable?
. . . that the Quest Program would be in our near future?
. . . that we'd be asking for recommendations?
. . . that we'd be allowed to go outside for study?
. . . that homework would be the last of our worries?
. . . that this was our last first day of school?
. . . that we wouldn't care what the other grades thought?
. . . that the teachers would take us seriously?
. . . that we'd be looking into colleges?
. . . that we'd be filling out a form for how our name should appear on our high school diploma?
. . . that we'd get class rank?
. . . that we'd be taking our senior pictures?

. . . that we'd be applying to colleges?
. . . that we'd be accepted to colleges?!
. . . that we'd never have to see our face in front of another generic T.D. Brown background?
. . . that sixth grade could seem so long ago?
. . . that we'd be planning our careers?
. . . that we'd be writing college essays?
. . . that scholarships could be so important?
. . . that we wouldn't be underclassmen anymore?
. . . that we'd be getting so much mail from colleges all over the place?
. . . that teachers would look forward to our classes for intelligent conversation?!
. . . that we'd make it to our last September, October, November, etc. inside the walls of W.H.S.?

For a lot of us the years have moved quickly. Weren't we the ones who were just getting lost going from English to the Cafeteria?

We overcame the good and bad points of the school. There's probably not one member of the class of '93 who hasn't said a few bad words about this school, but as college gets closer and closer there's a little part of everyone wishing that they could stay protected inside the walls of W.H.S.

Rob Gilligan blushes as Cara Brown's hair inches toward him.

YT knows he's a stud and wonders, "Need I say more?"

What is Julie remembering from last weekend?

Arwen practices her next performance in left field.

Ben "The Stud" Pettis braces himself for the flood of girls.

Is Cissie always this much fun?

Cara Brown laughs and hopes the camera doesn't see the hole in her nylons.

Meg tries her best to smile.

Where's Cathy's other hand?

Has the devil possessed Jon McCullough?

UNDER

Sophomore field hockey players "strike a pose."

Isn't it amazing that over one summer, typical juniors, can drastically build up their confidence and pull out from the drab world of underclassmen into their new illusions of power and popularity. For they are now SENIORS, and all the underclassmen merely their subjects!

This page for underclassmen photos was kindly offered by the senior editors. It is an area where the underclassmen experience can be viewed in a somewhat differen perspective. The pictures depict the sense of a carefree world with no worries . . . how deceiving they are.

Although life down under can be pretty easy, there are hardships too. Deadlines to make, homework to do, and most of all parties to attend. The perfect balance of academics and social life is impossible to achieve. Eventually through compromise and jeopardizing a few little things the balance is reached.

COMPETITION DAY

Peter Burke blows his opportunity to yell at Coach Laduke.

Goozer and Ian McPherson struggle to the finish line.

Jake seizes the Competition Day opportunity to show the school his muscles.

Miss Spinney and Coach Laduke look on wishing they were young again.

Brian Cusson and Jared Leland have mixed reactions to Alexis and Michelle's game plan.

THE SENIORS WON!

Ken better take off the blindfold because the "Posse" can't be far behind.

Competition Day — A time for all classes to vent their frustrations on each other. The last day of school is always packed with excitement. When else can you see people making fools of themselves for the "pride" of their class? Selected members of each class compete in ridiculous events selected by; well, we're not really sure. Obviously, the team with the most points wins. This is a chance for the younger classes to show everyone what they've got. As for the older ones, it's a chance to delegate authority and put the freshmen in their place.

The competition doesn't limit itself to the gym floor, people in the stands sometimes compete for the high honor of the loudest class. This day is designated for head-to-head battle. No one likes to lose to a group of people lower, (or younger) than they. Most of all, this day is designated for humor and fun. The only thing missing is the cheerleaders.

The Seniors realize school has almost ended and rise to their feet with excitement.

Sue Ross and Ronnie Bates move well together.

Dan Federman rises in disgust over the seating arrangements.

Before the Seniors hit rock bottom, they reveal their secret weapon and win Competition Day.

POWDERPUFF

Tension filled the girls' locker room, minutes before the 1992 Powderpuff Game took place, as the Junior Girls came tumbling in blaring on a boom box, "Mama Said Knock You Out." The Seniors simply watched as the super-confident girls of '94 took the competition of the day a little bit farther.

Rumor that the 1992 Powderpuff Game might be cancelled, the day of the game, did not come as a surprise to most ears. Nasty signs were hung, and ripped down, then torn up and worn by competitors. Glares thrown eye to eye, flyers were passed out by the seniors to set the junior girls straight on the rules of the day's game and commotion of the rivalry set the halls on fire. No one knew how far either side would stoop. Senior spirit was shot the day of the game when fellow seniors kept drilling in the girls' heads, "You're gonna lose . . . They've practiced twice as long as you guys . . . You don't have a chance . . . You're going to look like fools." The critics were only part right. The junior girls seemed to practice with the guidance of Mr. Smith, 24 hours a day! The senior class, with the help of Mr. Eliopoulos, practiced just as hard, just not so long. The seniors knew that all the practicing was for one and a half hours — there wasn't going to be national coverage or anything. Just a quick, competitive game of football and the best class would come out on top — as it did.

The actual game was action-packed. There was screaming, yelling, cheering — and the occasional kicking. The fans came and cheered who was suited to win the 1992 Powderpuff game. With a 12-0 win, the seniors came out on top. After the victorious class of '93 showed their excitement from the conquer, the two classes shook hands and congratulated each other on a game well played.

What the . . . ?

Laura Olsen shows her spirit on the sidelines.

Mr. Cerasoli and Mr. Sharp or is it just one big Howard Kosell?

Anissa is sick to her stomach with excitement.

A group of seniors show their pride.

Holiday Ball

Invitations were printed, decorations and food purchased, and a D.J. hired. Everyone had already ordered boutineers and corsages, made hair and nail appointments and cleaned and pressed dresses, coats, and ties. December 12, 1992 was a special night everyone was looking forward to. All we needed to make the evening of the "Holiday Ball" extra special was a little snow. A couple inches would have been welcome, but the blizzard we awoke to Saturday morning was definitely overkill . . . the Ball was postponed, possibly cancelled. After a lot of plans were changed, the Ball was rescheduled for December 19th from 8-11 p.m. The night turned out a success. Everyone looked great and the lobby was especially festive. Hilton was there to catch the special moment and Michael Jackson even made a guest appearance, moon walk and all. (Thanks Dan!)

Beth Potter and James Sullivan pose for the camera. Eric Andreoli and Kris Gasser look like their having a great time.

Dan Federman is the ultimate womanizer. Peter Burke jams to whatever it was that the D.J. played.

Andy Hieb and Todd Winski are stunned by the new dance Kerry McDowell and Sue Ross have created.

Secret Santa

This year secret Santa was almost a lost tradition but Avery Labreque saved the day and organized the whole thing herself! Everyone struggled the first day between trying to open lockers and making sure that their identity was kept secret. However, all of the minor problems paid off when we were entertained at lunch by Justin Shaw's rendition of "I'm too sexy." Lori Repsher confirmed our thoughts that she has been faking her way through band when she shakily squeaked her way through "California Here I Come." We were visited by Garth and Pat (otherwise known as Andy Shirey and Rob Simcoe) but most attention was on Rob Gilligan's skimpy Madonna outfit. P.J. Matson committed a major fashion faux pas in a skin tight sweater and Jared Leland's true feeling for the color pink became known. Emily Fortier used secret Santa as an excuse to kiss all the freshman boys and Gavin Andrews offered all her assistance to be a helpful nurse.

Secret Santa was a huge success and provided fond memories for all the seniors who were involved.

Jobs! Jobs! Jobs! Jobs! Jobs! They are a fact of life. You go through life wondering what you'll be when you "grow up." Sooner or later most of us will have to buckle down and start working. Some of us start this ritual in high school. A high school kid needs a job to save up for college, to get spending money, or gas money. We take part-time jobs after school, weekends, and sometimes week nights, too. To a large amount of Westboro High students, work can be found at CVS, Julio's, Stop & Shop, The Whiz, Green Thumb, Raschel's, TCBY, The Willows, Book Corner, Friendly's, and Papa Gino's. Jobs can be stressful. A lot of kids have less time to study and do homework, and almost no time to relax with a good book or to watch a bit of television. A job is not all that bad. You meet new people and learn to get along with each other. To sum it all up, one student said, "Jobs are about as much fun as having toenails removed with pliers, but you make money . . . well, sort of." Many Westboro students hold this sentimental love/hate relationship with their own job.

Where's the grease? Carter works diligently at Greasy Weeno's . . . oooops, I mean Papa Gino's.

Nicole, don't give me that seductive look.

It would help to open your eyes when counting money.

Cindy and Colin sure are crazy CVS people.

Nick and the great outdoors.

stylin'

Some way the stylin' elite reside here at WHS; Here are some of them:

There is a great diversity of clothing here at W.H.S. As in any other high school, fashion trends come and go as people express themselves and their personalities. As students go through high school, each develops their own style. Some people choose to wear conventional, casual clothes while others make definite fashion statements. At this point in time, scrunchies, Raider's jackets, baseball hats, Nike Airs, blazers, and body suits are in vogue. However, in spite of changing fashion trends, jeans still dominate most teenagers' wardrobes.

Although fashion is important, it has not become a vital part of our lives. For the most part, students are wearing clothes they feel comfortable in, without worrying what other people think.

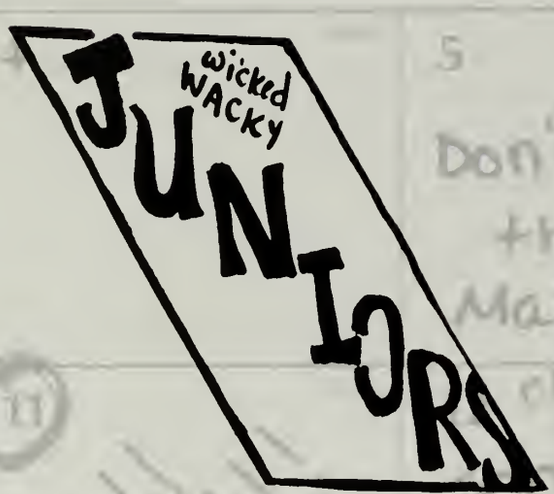
REMEMBER WHEN . . .

. . . Hooch was the Lord of the Flies?
. . . Freshman, freshman, YOU— —!?
. . . The soccer players were all skaters?
. . . We went to New York City and got flashed?
. . . We left Shy at Shell after the prom?
. . . Blue and White vs. Purple Day?
. . . Everyone got married in the 4th grade?
. . . Guys snapped our bras?
. . . The Alcar Bowl was 2-hand touch?
. . . We used to hang out at the library and The Flick?
. . . Dorie, Caitlin, Cissie, and Jen went to visit The New Kids on the Block?
. . . We played Spin The Bottle every chance we got?
. . . Girls wore plastic charm belts and necklaces?
. . . We made gum wrapper chains?
. . . We had a reputation as a party class (we still do!)?
. . . We wore fluorescent jelly shoes?
. . . Amy locked Emily in the annex bathroom?
. . . We made Ms. Kostylo cry?
. . . We broke all Junior High PDA rules?
. . . Derek Oliver in gym class?
. . . Roll On America?
. . . Woolly Bear football during recess?
. . . Cissie loved Ralph Machio, the Karate Kid?
. . . Dibobo fell down the stairs?
. . . Justin and Steve carried Kelly home?
. . . Michelle did the Pete Rose?
. . . Ian used to socialize?
. . . Shy had a car?
. . . We used to "Meet on the hill"?
. . . Jen Lanza's Mom gave her the home perm?

WHAT IF . . .

. . . Our houses had security systems?
. . . Jared filled the juice machine?
. . . Susie O'Malley didn't ask questions?
. . . We all weren't so thirsty?
. . . Alexis was on time for school?
. . . Ethan had unique hair?
. . . Brian Burhoe was happy?
. . . Steve LeBlanc got a haircut?
. . . The teachers understood our banners?
. . . There was no Alcar Bowl?
. . . Lisa Yendriga wasn't accident prone?
. . . Anjana and Lisa took Gym?
. . . Jen and Matt weren't intertwined?
. . . P.J. never said "Hey"?
. . . There wasn't a Res?
. . . Dana showed up at our five year reunion as a 300 lb. wrestler?
. . . Phyllis and Bill knew 20 girls weren't in their basement?
. . . Steve, Colin, and Jared didn't have "Gems"?
. . . Amy Powell didn't save SCUBA divers?
. . . Damon Kreth didn't have a near-death experience at Hampton?
. . . Justin Shaw modeled rings?
. . . Gavin Andrews had long hair (again)?
. . . Dibobo didn't geek the stairs?
. . . Jen Lanza didn't have a "Peacock."?
. . . You didn't idolize us!!
. . . Ben Szmanda didn't own a tye-dye?
. . . We were allowed to use red cups?
. . . We cared?



Junior year. We've heard about it, dreamt about it . . . and been warned about it! Since freshmen year we've all been cautioned, "It's the hardest year! It's so important! You'll hate it!" Suddenly there is this awful pressure on us! Pressure to do well (this is the year colleges look at!), pressure from SAT's, ACT's, and Achievements. Plus the pressure to be able to handle your classes while trying to maintain some semblance of a social life. Thank God for weekends!

Those Crazy Sophomores

Sophomore year is the transition year in high school. We're not frosh, but we are still underclassmen. Since we're not old enough to have our licenses our Mommy and Daddy have to cart us around everywhere. The embarrassment is still there. Schoolwork is very stressful. When kids are asked abut college they have no clue. Also in sports we are the transition because making varsity as a sophomore is very hard. Sophomore year is the year of being too young to do anything and too old to do everything.

Tripling up on the Field Hockey bus, the infamous "Freshman Jokes", and getting looked down upon by the upper classmen are just some of the Freshman rituals here at WHS. Being a Freshman, we go through a lot, but it's all worth it in the end when we're the seniors looking down upon the "Frosh".

Each class that passes through Westborough High School is special to me, and your class is no exception.

You probably remember your first contact with me in the auditorium as eighth graders and wondered, is that guy for real?

I hope the three R's that I wanted you to learn, respect, responsibility, and reverence will be remembered. I promise I will always remember the class of 1993 as being special to me.

Ways faculty makes students lose their minds:

— Assigning 500-page books to be read in three days!
— DETENTIONS!
— Assigning 25 assignments a night!
— Marking you down for being late even if you are there!
— AP DETENTIONS!
— Asking you, "How's your college search going?"
— Being marked AWOL for going to the wrong lunch!
— Being caught on the 2nd floor during lunch!
— Locking the bathroom doors so you'll explode at the end of the day!
— Calling you to the front of the room to explain something you don't understand!
— When a teacher makes a joke, and you are the punchline!
— THE MILE!
— Making you change for gym!
— The fact that we have to take gym all 4 years!
— THE ENFORCER!

DON'T WORRY, CAROL AND COMPANY, YOUR PICTURE WILL BE IN THE YEARBOOK!

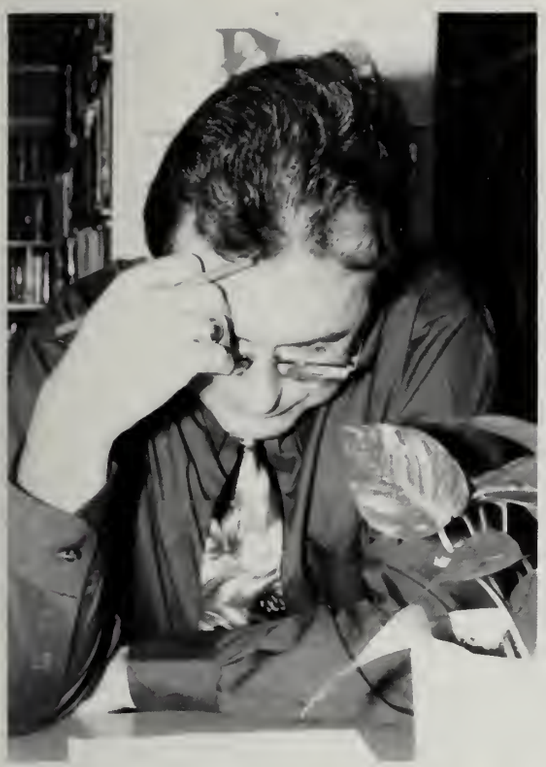
OUR CRAZY FACULTY

This is Mr. Mullen. Period.

Mr. Sharpe entertains a group of young girls with gestures concerning Mr. Juszynski.

Greetings from the rubber room.

We definitely would never forget the day the kitchen staff cut loose for an afternoon of wild water sports.



This is Mr. Fredette. What is he thinking about? Where did he get that crazy tie? Whose paper is he about to demolish? And look at that great plant. What else can we say?

Hi, I'm David Jost!!!

Is the world ready for two Coach LaDuke's?

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Imagine how difficult it is for a foreign student in Westborough High School. It's not only the language difficulty; one must learn to adapt to a different culture with its very different rules of behavior and social interaction. Matteo's home town is Bologna Italy, a modern industrial city and also a city of history, rich in painting and architecture as well as cooking.

In his native Bologna, Matteo is active in basketball, volleyball, football, tennis and swimming. Besides sports he is concerned about the environment and the destruction of the natural beauty of his homeland. His academic interests center on science and math; he is pursuing this interest in various courses at Westborough.

For recreation Matteo enjoys photography as well as sports and is currently enrolled in Mr. Dodson's photography course.

Yes, it has been a terrific time for me in Westborough. Living here for a year and going to the high school, allowed me to encounter American culture and to improve my English. I think the United States is a very beautiful country. I have been fortunate to see 13 various states and many cities. I met many interesting people whom I found very open, kind-hearted and helpful. I really enjoyed my stay.

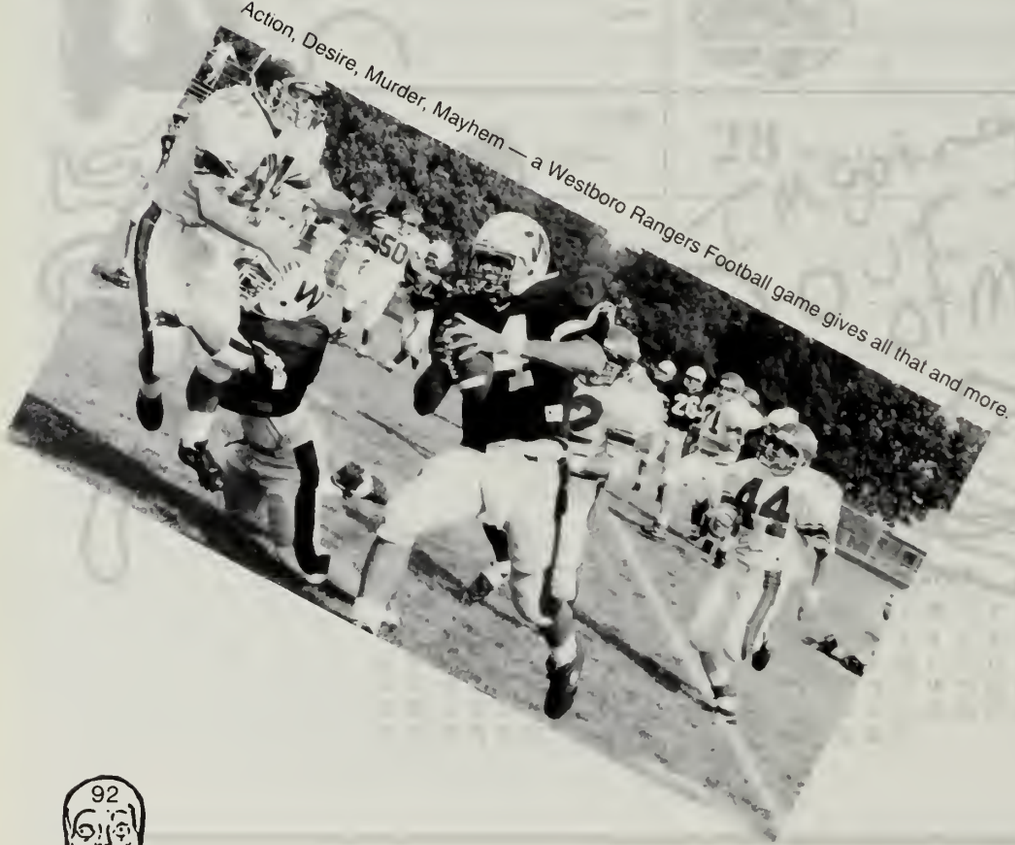
Field Hockey players often exhibit that special glow.

Westboro High School has a long time tradition of large participation in sports, and also of success in these sports. Even though WHS is on the smaller side it is well respected for being able to contend with larger schools. Year after year, our teams make names for themselves by competing and doing well in post-season play. In past years, our athletes have brought home District League, as well as State championships.



Action, Desire, Murder, Mayhem — a Westboro Rangers Football game gives all that and more.

ORTS

Whether it be Soccer, Football, or Cheerleading, every athlete at Westboro High takes pride in their team. Even if one of our teams is on the worst losing streak, they will always stand tall and defend their efforts. Every player takes each game personally which strives them to win. Every athlete here at Westboro High School knows what is meant by "Ranger pride". It is an inner feeling that gives the power for Ranger victory.

FIELD HOCKEY

It all began way back in August when we all met at Deerfield Academy for our annual Field Hockey Camp. Somehow we survived all the rain and torn muscles despite the grotesque food and poor facilities. By the time we returned to Westboro, it was time for our favorite part of the season: Double Sessions.

That long week in August was complete agony full of sprinting and Miss Debish's personal favorite: the 50 year special. By the time this week was over all 25 of us somehow managed to mesh into one team. Throughout early September, we worked really hard to achieve our mid-season goal of being number one in the league. There were many changes made in the field during the second half of the season due to many problems we were forced to overcome. We eventually pulled through the end of the season by qualifying for the 1992 Districts.

We were seeded fifth in the in our district and were scheduled to play Leominster during what we thought was going to be the worst weather of the season. We played for ninety minutes straight with the score remaining at zero-zero. We were forced to go into strokes after the sudden death period which we won with some excellent strokes by our team.

Next we were off to the District Semi-Finals against the Notre Dame at David Prouty. Somehow the weather managed to get worse as we lost a disappointing 4-2. Unfortunately, this ended our season with a 13-3-4 record. Although the last game was a disappointment, the season overall was a joy!

Boys Cross-country had their most successful season in years. They ended their season with a 7-1 record and missed going undefeated by one point in a meet against Oakmont. The team will be losing only four seniors: Walker Christie, Taylor Christie, Sean Hammon, and Ben Pettis.

The 4 captains: Walker Christie, Sean Hamon, Ben Pettis, and Taylor Christie.

Mahendra is getting pumped up.

Oh my god! Sean Hamon is getting sucked up by a sudden gravitational pull.

GIRLS X-COUNTRY

Every day for the first 3 months of school, seven girls left the locker room prepared to push themselves over miles of Westboro's hilly, winding roads. This may sound like masochism, but it's cross country.

Pain and dedication were a big part of the season, however, the small group's members kept each other going with encouraging words. Gavin Andrews (captain) held the team together with her spirit even when victory seemed impossible.

Coach John Doyle guided the team, which included five first year runners, to a surprisingly good finish at the league meet. He patiently put up with the constant whining about injuries and their jokes about the three pounds he lost. Jen Wheelock and Kristen Guglielmi ended the season at districts with the rest of the team there to cheer them on.

Although 1992 was more of a year of growth and experience than of victory, the team's potential is incredible and their spirit was undefeatable.

BOY'S SOCCER

Varsity: top row: Coach Greg Allen, Brian Burhoe, Todd Winski, Rob Gilligan, Mike Misterski, Peter Burke, John Pessia, middle row: Steve Wong, Chris Hubbard, Chris Calihan, Steve LeBlanc, Andy Shirey, Jeff Alcusky, Matt Paquette, bottom row: Dan Federman, Dale Morgan, Andy Hieb, Justin Shaw, and Rob Simcoe. Go, Rob, go!
Dale is blinded by the fluorescent balls.
Look at those musclely legs.

Once again men's varsity soccer came into the season with high hopes. This year they weren't disappointed. With a record of 10-6-2, they qualified for the Districts Tournament for the first time in ten years! This was mainly because of strong senior leadership from tri-captains Justin Shaw, Andy Hieb, and Rob Simcoe. The Rangers won four straight at the end of their season to earn a berth in Districts. The team lost a heartbreaker first round game to Minutemen Tech. 5-4 in double overtime. Coach Allens says, "This team deserved a better finish to this season. The seniors have worked four years to achieve this position. I am left with nothing but pride and respect for this group." Coach Allen worked just as hard as any player, he wanted to win as much as anybody else. For this the team would like to extend a special thanks to someone who has helped us as a coach and a friend.

The Rangers had three players elected to All Stars, one of which made Central Mass. All Stars and League MVP. For the first time in a long while this team is able to hold their heads high and be proud of what they've accomplished. Their key to success was playing as a team, there were no individuals this season. Each and every player was of equal importance on that field. Their success will certainly be a tough act to follow in years to come.

See Justin run.

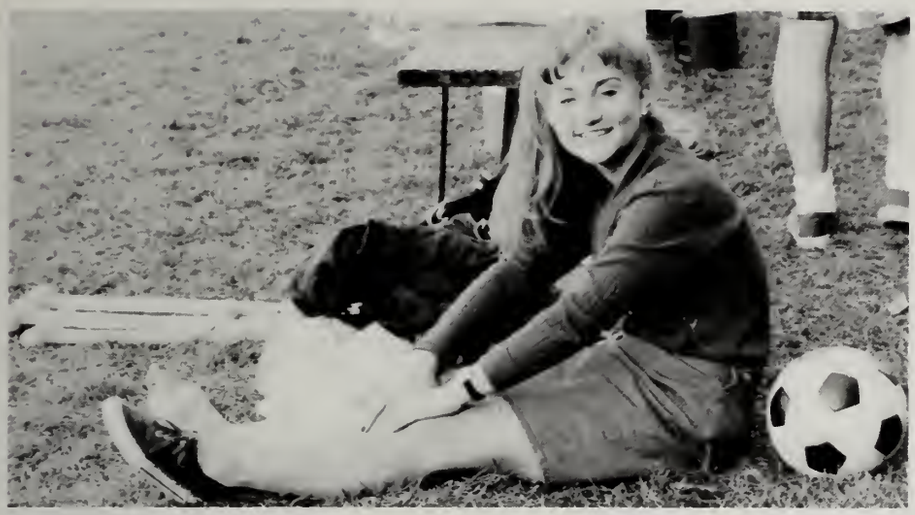
GIRLS SOCCER

GIRLS VARSITY SOCCER TEAM: Front Row: Tara Fay, Annissa Prefontaine, Sue Ross, Lori Repsher, Kristen Doherty, Erin Meagan. Middle Row: Alison Batty, Katie Hopkins, Sharyn Rainey, Nicole Uhlman, Jaime Pasqualetti, Sally Kircher. Back Row: Tiffany Glasier, Monaca McNall, Lori Cookman, Amy Jennings, Nancy Habarta, Megan Smith, Coach McCarthy.

The girls soccer team put in a good effort this year under the leadership of tri-captains; Anissa Prefontaine, Lori Repsher, and Sue Ross. They may not have made it to the state finals but, hey, you win some, you lose some. Although you must appreciate their endeavors — the tiring practices after-school, summer sessions (need I say more), and their winning spirit. The addition of many new underclassmen players will keep the spirit of girls soccer alive.

Kick, Sally, kick.

See our tri-captains: Lori, Sue, and Anissa.



Tiffany Glasier sits on the side lines due to her preseason accident. During double sessions, Tiffany unfortunately stepped on a ball during an intense drill resulting in a broken leg keeping her from playing all season.

To the left Allison Batty keeps up with the speedy Westboro offense. To the right Katie Hopkins does her victory dance for us.

See Jaime defend.

Girls J.V. SOCCER TEAM: Front Row: Sarah Nash, Emily Ricker, Emily O'Neil, Nazlie Parvizi, Radiance Foster, Kate McNall, Caroline Farriss. Middle Row: Danielle Glasier, Kristen Halstead, Sarah Goldman, Amanda Graves, Shannon Riley, Jackie Pratt, Tracey Rogers. Back Row: Tara Shrugrue, Tracy Rogers, Sarah Howard, Val Barkey, Anika Parab, Kanika Montabyez, Sue Black.

SENIOR STUDS!

Ian McPhearson flies through the air.

No one believed it could be done, but we proved everybody wrong. To turn around a 3-8 season into a 8-2 season, it sounded like a movie. With an extremely talented senior class this movie soon became a reality. Facing one of the hardest schedules in Central Mass and having to be the underdog everyweek, only made us want it more. The team wasn't blessed with size but what we did have was an incredibly smart and experienced unit. The season was filled with great moments, climaxing in a decisive victory against the Oakmont Spartans, which gave us the first undefeated League Championship in our teams history, but also kept alive our Super Bowl hopes. This win sent us up against the reigning Central Mass Super Bowl Championship Fitchburg Red Raiders for the right to go to the Bowl. In what was one of the greatest games in high school football history, Fitchburg edged Westboro 29-27 in overtime. Still in shock from the Fitchburg game we decided to end our season by really konking Algonquin. The Rangers steamrolled over the Tomahawks 29-6 and ended what was truly an incredible season.

The entire team would like to take this space to once again thank the coaches Coach Gebo, Hayes, Bilodeau, Mulcahey, Willis Healy, and Foley. Your efforts and sacrifices didn't go unnoticed.

CHEERLEADING

THis sport practices two hours a day four days a week and also attends a game on the weekend. They do sit-ups, push-ups, jumps, kicks, and run. They play basketball, sprint laps around the track and run stairs. No, we are not talking about football, basketball or field hockey; we are talking about cheerleading. Yes, cheerleading is a sport.

Not only do these girls practice hard, they must lead the crowds at football and basketball games, occasionally soccer and hockey too. They practice for weeks to get cheers timed together, build pyramids on the right counts, and land from a jump in synchronization. They spray paint sheets, make banners, and decorate rooms.

Cheerleading is an essential part of Westboro High that helps to make it a fun place to play sports at. They are there through the good and the bad, smiling the whole time.

Despite last year's winless season, the Westboro High Gymnastics team looked with optimism toward this year's season. Captains Gavin Andrews, Tara Martin, and Susie O'Malley feel this year's team was filled with promise and potential. The spirited group of returning upperclassmen led the team to a fun and enjoyable season. The squad also benefited greatly from strong, talented underclaassmen, including Becky Hamon, '95, and Erin Lloyd, '96.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the season came when the team won their very first meet against Milford. The shock really set in when they found themselves with two wins after the second meet against Hudson. Who knows? . . . this could have been the first time in the history of W.H.S. that the gymnastics team actually had a winning season — at least for a little while.

Everyone on the team truly contributed to the team spirit and a great fun season. Coach Bill Martin certainly had his hands full trying to deal with Susie Harding hanging under the beam and Lauren Shultz making everyone look bad, coming up with perfect floor routines to everyone else's music in about 3 minutes.

ICE HOCKEY

Seniors: Anthony Benoit, Chris DiBuono, Doug Eastman, Dana Hazel, Steve LeBlanc, Jake Mathieu, John MacInnis; Juniors: Jason Frantz, Mark Hunter, Mike LeBlanc, Matt Leverone, Peter Williams, Justin Woolacott; Freshmen: Dan Fisher, Jeremy Frantz, Rob Girard, Kjell Hansen, Dave Metzger, Eric Schoenfeld.

Steve LeBlanc and Jake Mathieu take a breather, collect their thoughts and steel themselves before the action resumes.

The Rangers ice hockey team, led by captain Steve LeBlanc and assistant captains Justin Woolacott and Jake Mathieu, had a better season than anyone expected. After losing their first five games, they won four out of their next five and were well on their way to improving last year's record in February. With the help of the strong defense of Justin Woolacott, Chris DiBuono, Matt Leverone and Mark Hunter, goalie Anthony Benoit had an excellent season. Their two balanced lines of Steve LeBlanc, Doug Eastman, and Mike LeBlanc, and Dana Hazel, Jake Mathieu, and Jason Franz greatly improved during the course of the season. New coach Chet Halice is looking forward to next season.

Doug Eastman advises the opposing team of his desire to maintain his private space.

Mike LeBlanc begins to make his move.

Girls Basketball

The Girls' Basketball team, being very short had to beat their opponents with speed, and they did just that. Even though they lacked height, they did very well for themselves. The three captains helped the team maintain their enthusiasm. This was a season of building, and the maturity and experience of junior Courtney Maclean and seniors Danielle Robinson and Elena Bertrand led the young Rangers to many victories. The returning eight underclassmen look forward to a winning season in '94.

Varsity:
Captains — Danielle Robinson and Courtney MacLean, Kristen Doherty, Marisa Hanaka, Beth Hurley, Erin Megin, Kerry McNamara, Alissa Pastner, Meagan Smith, Amanda Young, and Kate Hopkins.

Ha-ha it's all mine now!

As Courtney and Danielle shout "Everybody wave your hands in the air," Algonquin gets off with the ball.

When Christen's sleepwalking problem carried onto the court, we knew she needed help.

Boys Basketball

After losing 4 starters last year, veteran senior captains P.J. Matson and Greg White led the way for the young Ranger team who jumped out to an impressive 6-0 start. This young talented team got some great help from its other senior members, John Bannon and Jeff Alkusky. The other starters consisted of juniors Brian Bannon and Brian Stewart, as well as sophomore Jeff Luseck. Juniors Adam Patten, Ryan Dasaro, and Mike Condon, as well as sophomores Matt Paquette and Kevin Larsh saw a lot of playing time. The Rangers have a proud season to look back on and a promising future ahead.

P.J. Matson cuts outside for the rebound.

Indoor Track

For the second year in a row, Westboro High has an indoor track team. Many of last year's participants have returned and there are also many new faces. One of these new faces is Jack Foley. Due to the blizzard of '92 most of the practices were held on the second floor of the school. On any given afternoon track participants were found running in the hallways and bounding up the stairs getting in shape for their grueling races held each Saturday. Despite the team's small size, their hard work proved to pay off by keeping the scores close to those of much larger teams.

AH! Only ten more laps!
Is it a bird, a plane? NO! It's Alexis.

Don't worry Ilyse, you'll reach the end soon!

Jennifer Metzger and Tara Fay come from behind exceeding the speed of 50 mph.

SPORTS CANDIDS

The participants of the fall sports this year have much to be proud about. Very rarely in the past have so many teams from one school succeeded as Westborough did this year.

For the seniors, success this year was very important, some of them will never get another chance to play competitively. For the underclassmen, this could mask the beginning of an athletic reign that is sure to last as long as there are players to play and coaches to coach.

The success of our athletics is important for the character of our school. People look at Westborough with respect after a year like this.

Action, Desire, Murder, Mayhem — a Westboro Rangers Football game gives all that and more.

Field Hockey players often exhibit that special glow.

ALCAR BOWL

For the fifth year in a row the class of '93 gathered at Big Bob Stadium to carry on their annual Alcar Bowl. Two games were played on that rainy October day, in addition to a Powderpuff game and a play-off game. John Drisco was the official game referee and of course Mr. Hatherly was present with his camera. The powderpuff game began as a quiet game of two hand touch but quickly transformed into a rowdy game of tackle instigated by the boys cheers and Lori Repsher's initial tackle. The boys were kept on the edge of their seats while they stared at the incredible talent that would later crush and humiliate the junior girls in the official high school game. When the girls finally left the field it was their turn to stare in amazement at the impressive moves of YT and Pessiah. P.J.'s team prevailed over Ronnie's team in the final game of the traditional tournament. The day was a complete success, ending with a B.Y.O.B. (Bring Your Own Beef) barbecue in Big Bob's garage.

John Drisco just doesn't care that the crowd disagrees with his call.

ACADEMICS

Laurie Groce tries to give the impression that she is studying intently but, we caught her checking someone outs.

They must be freshmen.

KARL! Don't fall asleep on your homework!

The never ending quest for knowledge at Westboro High can make some go absolutely crazy. But every Monday a form of relief comes in the shape of ACTIVITY PERIOD. Classes are shortened and kids choose as activity which they do not have to worry about getting a grade for. There are so many to choose from. On the academic side we have the Math Team. Aca Deca & Future Teachers. We also have student government activities including Model Congress, Student Council, and during this time the class officers meet with their advisors. For those of you tired of academics, who want to flaunt your more creative sides, theres are alternatives such as Centerstage, Sax and Brass ensembles, Portfolio club, and Art labs. Video club and Video Yearbook can satisfy the techie in all of us, while the Imagist gives you a healthy dose of Mr. Sharpe in the afternoon. You too can make a difference with Project Freedom. SADD, and Big Brother/Big Sister. Improve your skills with Computer and Typing Labs, pursue Graphic Arts and Mechanical Drawing (and experience the magic of Mr. Mannix), or get all your aggressions out on a little black puck in Gym. Aren't you ecstatic to get into one of these activities? No? Maybe you just feel like a Monday afternoon is a perfect naptime, time to do homework, or to just chat and relax. Well fine, activity study periods are available too. With all these options the question might not be should I take an activity, but which ones should I choose? It's all up to you!

ACTIVITIES

Buck up Kelly! Don't let this swell place get you down.

Ben, I know you like Colin but . . .

NASHUNAL ONER SOCIETY

Despite what is considered by many to be a controversial selection process, membership in the National Honor Society is a goal that all top Westborough High School students strive to achieve. If a student is able to achieve the academic requirement for entry, he or she must fill out an information packet which describes his or her community service, leadership, and extracurricular activities. These packets are then evaluated by the mysterious Faculty Council which decides upon who will be inducted. Unfortunately, any type of "scar" on a person's record can be enough to keep him or her out. A few of our good friends learned this at a basketball game one night.

Once students get past the heralded induction ceremony, the true work begins. Each student is required to tutor his or her peers, sell tickets at basketball games, and complete a set number of service hours. Plus, we can't forget Chug and Chew. So is it all worth it? I would have to say yes. It looks good on college applications and hey, you get to wear that nifty "mantle" around your neck on graduation.

AKADEKKUH

Academic Decathlon is kind of like the Olympics for the mind. The members of the team train for two months before competing in a meet. They are trained in 10 subjects, from Fine Arts to Biology, Economics to Social Studies. Each year there is also a rotating subject, this year it's Ethnic Groups, last year it was the Environment. Depending on how well the team does at the first meet it could go on to state finals, then maybe Nationals. This year the best team from each state will meet in Phoenix to compete for the National Title.

Each week the team members meet with a teacher and the coaches, Mrs. Libbey and Mr. Fredette, to learn about a specific subject. And don't think only "brains" are on the team — it is mandatory to have members with B and C averages, as well as A averages. Being on the Academic Decathlon team is work — it's similar to having another class. But it's fun, too. The meets get really exciting and it can be a lot of fun to be part of the team.

YEARBOOK STAFF

Above: Jen Hinson is dumbfounded by Mr. Kaplan's words of wisdom.
Left: Alexis and Caitlin look pysched to do ANOTHER layout.

Here we are . . . excited as usual.

Above: Hey, Mr. Kaplan, have some sweet-n-low. What's the baby powder for?
Right: Where did our staff go?

The yearbook Staff: a poem, an argument, a conversation, a melee, harmony, cacophony, bossy women, where are the guys, too many blondes, a tired, aging advisor who has "loosed" terror upon the school.

They do a variety of things: sell books and ads, hang around the balcony, decorate Holiday Balls (T'anx's Sue), fill the juice machinge, bother the office for lists, hang arond the balconies; but it's the afternoons from 1:15 to closing and beyond. Now the room is noisy with seniors and juniors and an occasional sophomore. Arwen flies in and out, Lissi is off on her own wanting no direction, Amy, Kelly, and Michelle are conspiring in the corner, Sarah is giggling to herself, modulating her voice and doing a layout, and Alexis is arguing with Mr. K, talking to Brian and doing her layouts. Mr. K is just feeling bad about Nicole doing too much work and Caitlin finally has her art work done. Beth keeps a sane lid on everything.

I'm not sure if I will live to see the yearbook come out (Bob, I'm just kidding). Staying afterschool 'til 5 o'clock, layouts, copy, croppers, typing (which I'm just so good at), pictures, DEADLINES, layouts, headaches, meetings, and more copy. Am I in hell? Well, maybe I'm exagerating a little bit. Yearbook editors get to so swell things, too, like go to yearbook camp where they can toilet-paper bathrooms out of sheer boredom. If Gemma could only see me now. Who knows? Maybe I might even look back on this fondly . . . naaaa. Good luck next year Nicole and Chris, you'll need it.

Sarah Williams

Wow, it's finally over. Well, it was a lot of fun (at times) and I can't say I regret it. Thanks to everyone for putting up with me. Being an editor taught me patience and organization, and helped me get into college. Thanks to Mr. Kaplan for always being there to keep me in line, and help me with my emotional instability. You no longer have to listen to be bitching endlessly about things beyond my control, and I thank you for never shoving a sock down my throat. I'll miss you, along with Alexis and Sarah. Thanks for everything. Good Luck next year — I'll be in New York!! Arwen Lowbridge

We are insane. Most seniors leave school early. Most seniors have hardly any work to do and breeze easily through senior year. Not so far. YEARBOOK EDITORS! We love to work. We love to stay after school til 5 pm to meet deadlines. We are gluttons for punishment. We like stress and pain. I, for one, LOVE HILTON. No, I do! I am your photo editor. I hope you all like the pictures. Mr. K — you're out of control! Arwen, Sarah, and Alexis — you're crazy! Always remember our goofy times with Herff Jones and Gemma! Love, Lissi.

i hope this is worth 25 dollars!

Last year when I was asked to be editor of the '93 yearbook, I felt priviliged. Needless to say it was not a privilege. I didn't expect so much work and deadlines; however, I did learn some responsibility. As an editor I had the pleasure of attending yearbook camp, completing, learning (some verb in there) layouts, headlines, copy, etc.. And with the help of Gemma I learned to hate "white space." Although the yearbook was a lot of stress, I look back with pride on our accomplishment.

Good Luck to Nicole, Chris and Jenn in '94

centerstage

OFFICERS: Julie Lacouture (president), Josh Rothman (technical wizard), Julie Grossman (financial czar), Tim McKeon (vice president), and Kelly Pendergast (secretary).

Julie seems startled by the NEW Lisa Yendriga.

Above, Eric Andreoli huffs while Matt O'Neill and Dave Crosier frolic.

Centerstage, if you did not know this already, is much more than just an entity that's sole purpose is to complain to the Lobby Observer. It is the name of Westboro High's drama group. Centerstage has been in existence since 1986, and has had a growing number of members and participants ever since. In fact, Centerstage has had so many members this year that it is no longer held as a Monday afternoon activity. Only the officers meet at that time, but you can still recognize members selling candy bars, proudly wearing hats and sweatshirts emblazoned with the logo and, of course, acting in the many yearly plays.

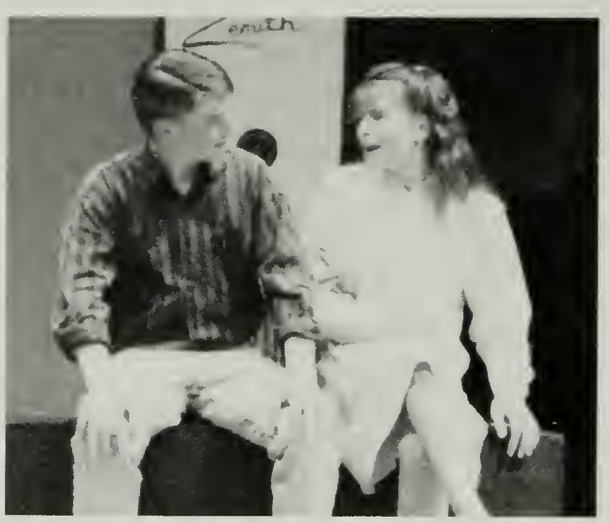
ONE Act PLAYS



On Tuesday, May 26, 1992, the second annual Spring Drama Festival made its appearance on the WHS stage. These four one act plays were each student directed, including one written by students. After weeks of rehearsing, the actors' efforts paid off by the spastic response of the crowd.

"The Man in the Bowler Hat," directed by Michelle Pollack, '93, took the stage first. This play was swell, helped by the humorous performance of Dave Sullivan, '92, whose sense of humor kept the audience laughing. Tory Temple, '94, and Tim McKeon, '95, did a great job of making the play interesting and entertaining. Bravo!

Next, directors Lissi Erwin, '93, and Lisa Yendriga, '93, presented the off-beat comedy, "A Danish Soap." It featured some super-duper performances by Dan Cornely, '93, and Bill Gaffney, '92. How can you not like a play with Sarah Williams, '93, and Julie Grossman, '93, in it? A spectacular party scene filled with groovy music and gyrating pelvic dances was great! This play really kicked some booty.

"Dentity Crisis," directed by Vanessa Morrel, '92, was a wacky, zany, cooky, cheesy play. How can you not like a play filled with incest, cheese, and banana bread? It featured some super special performances by Leanne Doherty, '92, Dave Fox, '92, and Aubrey Errington, '94. Matt O'Neill, '95, and Julie Lacouture, '94, were fabulous as cross-dressing freaks. Mr. Mcwhiney did a stunning performance as 'Lamp Shade Head.' If you missed this, you are out of your mind!

"The Last Girl Scout," written and directed by Dave Bouffard, '92, and Adam Peltzman, '92, was crazy with a capital C! It was action packed with a special appearance from Robert Stack. Sam Hendricks, '94, did a superb performance as the Neanderthal Man. Meredith Knights, '94, girl scout gone wrong, was great, and she had some awesome pigtails! Pete Galea, '92, and Kelly Pendergast, '94, were bonded by their secret handshake and infamous code word. All actors did a great job in this superbly written play.

EUROPE

Frau Simeanou and Mr. Pelletier must have been crazy when they agreed to take 16 Juniors on a trip to Germany, Switzerland, and Austria. The group consisted of Cathy Vadola, Damon Kreth, Meg Gallinough, Steve LeBlanc, Dorie Blackerby, Amy Powell, Colin Rutt, P.J. Matson, Kelly Powell, Anjana Trivedi, Katie McGinn, Rob Gilligan, Tara Martin, Justin Shaw, Brian Burhoe, and Andy Hieb.

We landed in Frankfurt, Germany on April 16, 1992 for what was to be the best time of our lives. We all grabbed our suitcases (some of them bigger than others — DORIE) and made our way towards the infamous bus where we would end up spending the majority of our time. We met our tour guide Andy (whose entire vocabulary consisted of the word . . . right) and our bus driver Fritzy.

We had a whirlwind of a week starting with a cruise of the Rhine River and ending in the wee hours of the morning in some German disco. In between we visited castles, Olympic stadiums, and beer halls. Although the only German word we learned the entire trip was the word for "big-dog", we did learn some important lessons about the European way of life. Kelly learned the hard way that you must be careful when exiting a subway train, and we all learned that Germans don't use shower curtains and apparently eat only rolls for breakfast.

By the time we landed in the Boston ten days later all of the guys had earrings (or safety-pins) in their ears, thanks to Cathy, and we were all experts at the YT dance (thanks to Steve). We all slept for about a week as we attempted to recover from what had been the best week of our lives.
